

ANGUS THE OWL

Zen: Angus, please come up here

Angus: What is is?

Zen: They're in serious trouble and shouldn't be getting involved with the twins.
Say no before they end up addicted.

Angus: That's terrible. I'm happy to help in any way I can.

Zen: Your task is to help the twins realize that smoking cigarettes is dangerous, in a way that truly opens their eyes.

Angus: How did they get start smoking?

Zen: Simply put, they wanted to fit in and belong. Try to stop them from joining the wrong crowd or making friends who are bad news

Angus: I understand now and i will do my best to prevent it from happening.

Zen: I know you've got this, Angus.

Angus: no cigarette will pass their mouth got my word

Angus has just arrived at the twins' home.

Angus hooted at the kids.

Eugene asked, "Why is there an owl at our window?"

Eunice replied, "I don't know, should we open it?"

The kids did, and Angus flew into their bedroom.

Angus: Well, hello kids, I'm Angus. You must be Eugene and Eunice.

I think I might send my friend Caviar Cat to help you with style.

Eugene: Owls can't talk.

Angus: I'm an angel owl, silly.

Eunice: Hello Angus, I'm Eunice.

Say hello to Eugene.

Eugene: Hello Angus, I'm a nerd.

Angus: I figured as much.

Eunice: Eugene constantly getting swirlies, wedgies, stuffed in lockers, and even forced to do their homework too.

Angus: I might bring my friend Ronnie the cat, who stands up to bullies and gives them a piece of her mind.

She's really tough.

Eunice: I'll keep it in mind in case I need to learn how to defend myself.

Eugene: He meant me, silly.

Angus: I still need to know more about both of you to see who I benefit from.

Eugene: Eunice has a big crush on a biker named Vinnie. He smokes and is trouble.

Eunice: He's so dreamy. He's the guy I want to marry when I grow up.

Angus: Has your mother ever talked to you about those feelings?

Eunice: She left us, moved far away. She was tired of being married and being a mom.

Eugene: We don't remember much of it.

Angus: I might bring a mom down from heaven to talk to you, or maybe Connie the cat—she's a mama cat.

The next day at school, Vinnie and his gang arrived and spotted the twins.

Vinnie: Did you finish your homework, Eugene?

Eugene: I was here.

Vinnie: Perfect, I'll hand it in.

Eugene: Enjoy your A.

Hector: Where's my homework, Eugene?

Eugene: Got it right here.

Vito: And mine?

Eugene: Yours too, just make sure to give them to each other.

Guys: Nope, we better get an A or you'll be stuffed in a locker, got it?

They left, causing trouble for others as they went.

Eunice: Vinnie is so dreamy, the hottest guy in school.

Teacher: Vinnie, Vito, Hector, I'd like to see you after class. You too, Eugene.

class is over

Guys: What do you want? We're busy.

Eugene: you want to see me.

Teacher: I noticed all three papers exactly the same I wanted you 3 write own paper and Eugene stop doing their homework for them or I will call dad got it good now 4 can go.

School's done for the day.

Vinnie: your toast Eugene, you hear me.

the gang's parents found out about homework.

Eunice: Angus, can caviar turn me into a biker babe?

Angus: How was school today, kids?

Eugene: The teacher found out I was doing their homework.

Angus: That's terrible—it's time to stand up to them, and as a young lady, you want to dress to impress Vinnie.

Eunice: He's so dreamy, Angus.

Eugene: Eunice never stands up for me, and I end up getting beat up.

Eunice: I can't, I don't know how to defend you.

Angus: Eunice goes downstairs and sees Dad talking to Eugene and defending himself.

Eunice: Okay, I will.

Dad Eugene needs help figuring out how to defend himself against his brother's gang, which includes Vinnie, Vito, and Hector.

He wants me to defend him.

Rocco Mancini: I got this—are we talking about Rocco Moretti's kids?

Eunice: You nailed it! They're making him do their homework.

Rocco Mancini: Eugene, come down here right now.

Eunice back upstairs

Eunice: Angus, I've got an idea to help Eugene—I'm going to turn into a tough biker babe with Ronnie the cat's help.

Eugene: you called for me Dad?

Dad: So you're doing the rotten kid's homework, then we head outside where I'm teaching you self-defense, and you're asking your sister—how low have you sunk?

Meanwhile, Eugene is in the backyard learning how to defend himself.

Eugene: Do you want to hear something, Dad?

Dad: What's that?

Eugene: Eunice is totally crushing Vinnie Moretti.

Dad: Oh no, ha-ha, that Rocco Moretti kid—eww, ha-ha.

Eunice: Future Mrs. Eunice Moretti

Angus: Oh, why not see for yourself what he's really like? Ronnie, get down here and bring the kid's large leather jacket with you.

It's time to show the girl what Vinnie Moretti is all about and help her get him out of her system. Can you do that?

Ronnie: Alright, I'm heading to the Moretti household first to see what we're working with.

Ronnie is now at the Moretti household, seeing firsthand what Vinnie thinks.

Ronnie: Eww, why would any girl be curious about becoming involved with Vinnie and the Moretti brothers? I need help Zen.

Zen: what do you need help with Ronnie?

Ronnie: What happens to Vinnie, and what is the outcome, if Eunice grows up and marries him?

Zen: Vinnie is often in and out of jail, works as a mechanic, and has more kids with his wife than he can afford to support.

Ronnie: Angus told me to stop Eunice from opening her eyes about Vinnie.

Ronnie gives Eunice lessons on how to be a tough girl and how to dress and act the part.

She even zaps her up a motorcycle-shaped bicycle and helmet. The next day at school, the new Eunice makes her debut.

The Moretti brothers have arrived, and Eunice pulls up beside them.

Vinnie: Find another place to park.

Eunice: Make me!

Vinnie: Eunice, is that you?

Eunice: Yeah, that right?

Vinnie: I like what I'm seeing.

Eunice: Thanks, you're not too bad yourself.

Vinnie: Do you want to have a smoke with me before school?

Eunice: Yeah, why not? I could use a pick-me-up.

Vinnie: Now you're speaking my language.

Ronnie: Angus, get here quickly! Hurry up!

Angus: I'm here, but he's not.

Angus asked to meet the Moretti brothers and hurried to grab cigarettes away from Vinnie.

Vinnie said, "Go away, owl, you bother me," then punched Angus out of the sky. He fell unconscious, showing no signs of life.

Ronnie: Let me at him.

Eunice: No, let me at him, Ronnie.

Ronnie: Ok, ok, you insist on helping.

Eugene: No, this is my fight, and I don't need my sister to fight my battles for me.

Eunice: Let's all take Moretti's down, one-two.

Ronnie: 3 and let me rest with them.

Eunice: They'll regret the day they messed with the Mancini twins.

Eugene: I know, right? Let's go to Moretti's.

Angus woke up again and saw the kids finally stand up for themselves.

Angus: Kids, remember that violence isn't the answer, and that goes for you too, Ronnie.

Ronnie: we'll see.

Twins: We know we have to scare the clowns.

Angus: That's great for you.

Rocco Moretti: Let me get straight you let Mancini twins one being girl kick your butt ha-ha that funny

All because of brought owl pain because bothering you where I go wrong raising you Vito: That's not the reason the owl is trying cigarettes from Vinnie; it's about getting Eunice to try her first smoke.

Rocco Moretti gave his sons a piece of his mind, then sat down for a heart-to-heart talk.

Rocco Mancini: Way to go, son, for taking on Rocco Moretti's sons—I'm proud of you, son.

Eugene: Eunice helps her dad.

Rocco Mancini: Eunice is a good girl, which means you aren't marrying Moretti?

Eunice: No, sir, Dad.

angus owl went find their mom and did angus told her everything displeased the mom

Angie Mancini: I'm home to stay, not leaving you alone to face corrupt minds again.

The kids said goodbye to Angus and Ronnie.

Eunice: Here's your jacket back, Ronnie. Thanks for everything.

Do I grow to Marry Moretti?

Ronnie: Keep it, you're welcome.

Zen: Tell her no, she's marrying the guy her dad chooses and approves of.

angus did 2 them back in heaven

Angus: how does Eugene turn out?

Zen: He works at his dad's company in accounting.

Great work to both of you, too.

Oh yes, all three Morelli boys are heading off to military school.

The End.